

Everyday Justice in the Myanmar Transition

Edited by Helene Maria Kyed

Contents

Introduction: Everyday justice in a contested transition Helene Maria Kyed .....	1
Chapter 1: Forum shopping and plural authorities in southern Mon State Mi Thang Sorn Poine and Helene Maria Kyed .....	38
Chapter 2: The shadow power of armed actors: justice seeking practices in a rural Pa-O self-administered zone Mi Thang Sorn Poine and Nan Tin Nilar Win .....	63
Chapter 3: Why is customary law so strong? Political recognition and justice practices in the Naga self-Administered zone Lue Htar, Myat The Thitsar and Helene Maria Kyed .....	90
Chapter 4: Religious and spiritual non-state authority in a legal plural setting in Karen State Marie Knakkegaard .....	126
Chapter 5: Dispute resolution and security perceptions among urban Karen: the role of religious and ethnic identity Lwin Lwin Mon .....	150
Chapter 6: Are we so different? Inter-religious collaboration in a rural Karen-Muslim village in Hpa-An township Than Pale .....	172
Chapter 7: Being excluded - Muslim and Hindu communities in the Karen State Mikael Gravers and Anders Baltzer Jørgensen .....	199
Chapter 8: Everyday trepidation: State affects and mental absconding in a marginal neighbourhood in Myanmar Annika Pohl Harrisson .....	230
Chapter 9: Informal (justice) brokers: Buying, selling, and disputing property in Yangon Elizabeth Rhoads .....	257
Chapter 10: Everyday justice in Karen refugee camps Kirsten McConnachie .....	284